Dock Picket

A lone picket is on hand as the Italian liner Saturina docks in New York. The more than 1,000 passengers aboard the ship had to struggle with their baggage as 60,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association went on strike. The walkout tied up New York and every other major port on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

Hungarian Strike Efforts Pushed

VIENNA — UP — Hungarian patriots struggled today to maintain a solid strike front without a major breach until the Soviet-imposed Janos Kadar regime backed up its promises with deeds.

Indications of a possible crack appeared last night when the Budapest Workers Council voted over strong opposition to call off the crippling nationwide strike.

There was immediate reaction from rank-and-file workers and leaders of the intellectual and freedom-fighters groups. A rebel leader protested strongly against workers giving up "our only weapon to make the Russians leave."

Threats Mentioned

There were suspicions, not confirmed, that Kadar and his pro-Russian aides forced the committee to issue the appeal under threats of deportation and other reprisals.

The council appealed to workers to end the strike and give Kadar "a chance to prove whether he is willing to fulfill his promises."

But Hungarian rebel leaders feared that if strikers called a truce and returned to work, the last hopes for freedom would vanish. They placed little faith in the security of the promises made by Kadar and feared that workers would not walk out again if he reneged.

Hungary Fighters Stirred

The Hungarian workers are cold and hungry now. But their anti-Communist hatred was inflamed by the relentless repression of Hungarian freedom fighters by Soviet tanks and troops.

Kadar, in his desperate search for means of ending the four-week nationwide strike that has brought chaos in Hungary, has brought chaos in Hungary, has

Winter Howls Along Coast

By UNITED PRESS

The first wave of winter howled down upon the Atlantic Coastal states today, but a mass of warm air trailing behind the frosty climate gave the Central Plains their first relief since the cold arrived.

The advancing chilliness interrupted a prolonged Indian summer in New England. New York suburbanites still mowed their lawns yesterday in 69-degree heat. It was expected, however, that they'd soon be swapping their lawnmowers and rakes for snow shovels and ice-scrappers.

Mercury readings plummeted to an average of 30 degrees below the previous day's readings as the cold front stalked across the lower Great Lakes and eastern Ohio Valley regions yesterday. Zanesville, Ohio reported a drop of 39 degrees.

At that a soft blanket of white would be a welcome lift for the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons, for whether you want to believe it or not, they're all but here.

Waterfront Strike Talks Begin Today

Crippling Walkout Reaches To West And Hawaii

NEW YORK — UP — Dock union and shipping association representatives meet today to seek an end to the strike which the International Longshoremen's Association Ind. called "100 per cent effective" in tying up all major East and Gulf Coast ports.

More than 200 passenger and cargo ships were stranded in harbors from Portland, Me., to Brownsville, Tex., by the walkout of some 60,000 ILA members.

The effects of the strike already have spread to the West Coast where members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union refused to handle cargo on about a dozen ships bound to or from East Coast ports.

In Honolulu, an ILWU spokesman said Hawaiian longshoremen also would boycott ships coming from or destined for ports on the U.S. East Coast.

In Second Day

ILA President Capt. William V. Bradley ordered the general strike at 12:01 a.m. yesterday, when the union's second contract extension with the New York Shipping Association expired.

Informed sources in Washington said the administration would not seek an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction to halt the strike until the middle of next week or possibly longer. Such an injunction was obtained to halt a strike in 1953.

The administration hoped the strike might be settled before next week, an official said, and there was no thought "for the time being" of invoking the Taft-Hartley act.

The New York Board of Trade yesterday appealed to President Eisenhower to declare a national emergency and invoke the Taft-Hartley law. They said the walkout of 25,000 longshoremen in the port of New York would cost an estimated $1 million a day.

The cost to the nation's shippers and other businesses was estimated at $20 million daily if the strike continues.

The movement of dry cargo in the Port of Philadelphia remained paralyzed today as striking longshoremen picketed the Delaware River waterfront from Trenton to Wilmington.

The strike by 6,500 members of the International Longshoremen's Association here was part of the general East Coast walkout. The Maritime Exchange here reported that 25 general cargo vessels were idle in the Port of Philadelphia, including two ships handling Army cargo.

Grand Jury Indicts Ex-Bridge Officials

Three former commissioners and the one-time comptroller of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission yesterday were held for county criminal court on seven indictments upheld by the Bucks County Grand Jury.

Indicted were former commissioners R. Chapman Carver, Ivyland; Alexander Miller, Easton; Leslie Brown, Trenton, and former comptroller Robert A. Haney, Trenton.

Refugee Mother Appeals For Child

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — UP — A young mother who fled the Romanian Embassy with her family appealed today for mercy for an 11-year old daughter still in Communist hands in Romania.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coman and their two boys were granted political asylum by the Argentine government and placed under protective custody. But fear that her daughter, Maria, in Bucharest would suffer for their actions was uppermost in Mrs. Coman's mind.

"Don't let them do anything to her," she pleaded tearfully with Argentine authorities. "Please get her free."

Episcopalians Back Hungary

POCONO MANOR, Pa. — UP — The Episcopal House of Bishops today circulated an 800-word statement deploring the "ruthless slaughtering" of Hungarians and expressing "misgivings" about the Middle East crisis.

The pastoral letter, expressing the unanimous opinion of 125 bishops representing 3-million U.S. Episcopalians, will be read in 8,053 parishes throughout the country within 30 days. It was (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

West Decries Red Murders

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (UP) — Western anger at Soviet "mass murder" in Hungary and the deportation of thousands of young men to Siberia neared the boiling point today.

Emilio Nunez-Portuondo, head of the Cuban delegation, said he will introduce a resolution in the United Nations General Assembly Monday charging the Soviet Union with genocide "mass murder" and demanding the Soviets stop herding free Hungarians to Siberia in retaliation for the Hungarian uprising.

Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., gave U.S. approval of the Cuban effort yesterday and said the United States would "fully support" U.N. action if the Soviets send volunteers to the Middle East.

Interrupted

The assembly interrupted a parade of policy debates when Hoover, standing in for the recuperating Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, asked that the Hungarian situation be taken up immediately. Only six of 79 nations had presented their policy speeches, which usually fill the first few days of each annual assembly session.

Hoover told the assembly the United States "cannot remain silent while Hungarian men, women, and children are forcibly deported" by the Soviets.

Tully's Fire Fighters Busy

Trains were slowed down on the Pennsylvania Railroad north of Tullytown shortly after 3 p.m. yesterday when a signal box on a signal bridge burned up.

In a less serious brush fire that broke out between the railroad and Route 13, east of the Bristol Courier and Levittown Times plant while the Tullytown Fire Company was at the railroad, reporters and a service station attendant turned firemen to protect their buildings.

High flames shot up from the signal box, which the firemen at first had to run to with extinguishers, then drove their engines to a back road, beyond N. Main street, east of Lelinski dump. Using dry powder until railroad officials assured them the electric current was not of high voltage, the firemen then put water on the signal box. It was completely destroyed.

Downs Chips In

Bob Downs, attendant at a service station on Route 13, fought the brush flames with a broom as they approached his gas tanks. Reporters Jim Ort and Gordon Parker, rushed from the newspaper building and with Lou Wagner, news director of radio station WTJN who was visiting to check on the latest news for his 4 p.m. broadcast, the trio picked up planks and cardboard to swat the flames as the Tullytown fire engines rolled in, sirens whirling, to finish the job. Mr. Wagner was able to broadcast an "I was there exclusive" to his listeners.

Tullytown Fire Chief John Steen said the signal box fire was evidently caused by a short circuit.

Boro Councilman Held For Assault

A Bristol Borough councilman was arrested last night and charged with aggravated assault and battery, police said.

Paul Hughes, 50, of 338 Harrison street, was arrested about 8:40 p.m. last night by borough police on a warrant signed by his wife, Mrs. Anna Hughes, and issued by Justice of the Peace Eugene Spadaccino, Bristol.

The councilman is being held on $1,000 bail and is awaiting a hearing on Tuesday at 8 p.m., police said.

Royal Navy Use Sought By Britain

LONDON — UP — A new dispute between Britain and Egypt over the Suez Canal today threatened to collapse Middle East peace moves.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, in Cairo for talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, was caught squarely in the middle.

Success of the United Nations emergency forces in the canal zone was seriously endangered even before they could take up their duties of policing the troubled areas.

The latest dispute arose when the British Admiralty announced that at least 49 sunken ships were blocking the canal and that the job of re-opening the waterway should be given to the Royal Navy, with crews also working at the Egyptian-held south end.

This brought an angry reply from Col. Abdel Kader Hatem, director of the Egyptian Information Department, who said such an act would be a violation of the U.N. resolutions on the Middle East.

Stronger British Stand Urged

A new demand for a stronger Anglo-French stand in the Suez crisis came today from Patrick Maitland, a Conservative member of Parliament and one of the "Suez rebels" who have demanded strong action against Nasser.

Hammarskjold already was reported having trouble in his Cairo talks with Nasser over the widely different approaches taken to the problem by Egypt and by the Anglo-French forces.

Cairo has insisted throughout that the Anglo-French forces withdraw immediately from the canal zone and that the U.N. forces be reduced to patrolling the old Egyptian-Israeli cease fire line.

Britain and France have insisted their troops will remain until they are assured the canal will be reopened.

The New York Times reported in a Washington dispatch today that the United States has joined British and French officials in agreeing that U.N. troops should station units along the entire length of the canal in addition to placing men on the Israeli-Egyptian border.

Meanwhile so many U.N. troops were arriving at the U.N. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Duff Leads Clark In GI Ballots

Military Returns Seen Insufficient To Change Result

HARRISBURG — UP — U.S. Sen. James H. Duff had some balm for his defeat in the Nov. 6 elections today when a tabulation of Pennsylvania's military ballots showed he had cut into Democrat Joseph S. Clark's victory margin.

Unofficial returns in 44 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties disclosed the Republican incumbent received 9,830 votes to 5,664 for Clark.

There seemed virtually no hope that Duff could poll sufficient votes from the absentee count in the remaining 23 counties to pull ahead of the former Philadelphia mayor.

Lead Cut

If the pattern holds, Duff may reduce Clark's lead to about 12,000. The unofficial count before the absentee tabulation gave Clark a 16,885 vote margin over Duff.

The military vote in Allegheny County was a surprising contrast. Duff polled 2,526 county absentee ballots to 1,453 for Clark. In the Nov. 6 tally Clark drew about 40,000 votes more than Duff.

The military tabulation could have no effect upon the results of the presidential balloting in Pennsylvania where President Eisenhower won all 32 electoral votes. Mr. Eisenhower's unofficial returns showed he had cut into Clark's lead to about 12,000. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

Returns Four Indictments

Miller with "false pretense," was not submitted for deliberation. It charges that Miller had a voucher okayed by the solicitor for the commission and was "reimbursed" after he claimed he spent his own money "on behalf of the bridge commission" while on trips to Las Vegas, Nev., and Phoenix, Ariz.

However, the expenses for those trips are mentioned in an earlier indictment against Miller, one of five which were upheld against him by the September Grand Jury.

Miller was indicted yesterday on a charge of maintaining a lobby in Harrisburg and on the four-man conspiracy bill.

Carver, who is now administrative assistant to the president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, was indicted on 36 counts of accepting $12,000 in "illegal" salaries from the commission, for conspiracy, and on seven counts of paying a show-girl for "non-existent secretarial services."

The showgirl, Nonnie Brandt, Philadelphia entertainer, allegedly received $715 in salaries for work which the state claims she never performed.

All alleged offenses in yesterday's indictments took place since October, 1952.

Supervisors Slate Dance

The annual Fall dinner dance will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 1st by the U.S. Steel Fairless Works Supervisors association at Hotel Hildebrecht, Trenton.

Following the dinner, which will be served at 7 p.m., dancing will begin about 9 until midnight. Since the ballroom will seat only 500 for the dinner, President Frank John has announced that the first requests will receive the 250 tickets available.

Because the association is assuming part of the expense, tickets for the full evening will cost only $6 per couple and this too will be another reason for a sellout.

Reservations are being taken by phoning Extension 298 at the steel plant. Tickets are available by contacting any Departmental Representative.

Romanian minister's desk and started to run with his four-year old son Gig toward a policeman. He shouted to his wife to follow with nine-months-old Luciano.

Their cries and struggles against the Communist escort brought police, and a huge crowd of Argentines, on the run.

While the police asked questions, a Romanian official darted from the embassy, grabbed the baby from Mrs. Coman's arms and ran back inside. A few minutes later, a maid appeared and seemed to offer the baby back. Mrs. Coman moved toward the embassy doors and men leaped out and dragged her screaming inside.

A short while later, she climbed onto a second-story window ledge and clung there until rescued by Argentine workers.

The Argentine government demanded and won the release of the baby on grounds he was an Argentine citizen, because he was born here.

Warriors Win With No Strain

By UNITED PRESS

Paul Arizin and Neil Johnston, the "old pros" of the Philadelphia Warriors, are beginning to hit the mark and their momentum has moved the defending champions into a first place tie with the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association.

Arizin hit for 27 points and Johnston for 21 last night to pace the Warriors to an easy, 123-97 win over the Minneapolis Lakers. The point total represented Philadelphia's high for the young season and also marked the Warriors' second straight win.

Fairless Local Asks Dues Study

Local 4889 United Steel Workers Union, Morrisville, employees of the Fairless Steel works, voted Thursday night to request its international executive board to reconsider the recent $2 per month increase in dues, joining locals everywhere in the protest.

Meanwhile in Pittsburgh, rank and file steelworkers protested the increase by picking a slate of candidates to oppose top officers of the United Steelworkers in elections next February.

They chose Don Rarick, chairman of the Dues Protest Committee, to oppose U.S.W. president David J. MacDonald for the top post. Rarick is a member of Local 2227, Irvin Works, U. S. Steel Corp.

It would be the first time in the union's 20-year history that opposition developed in election for the union presidency.
